Call Forward Not Reachable / Automatic failover in case of failure

Description

This feature enables a User to redirect incoming calls to another phone destination when the Users device fails to respond to an incoming call request or is not registered with the service.

For example if your phone were to break, Internet connection fails, Power goes off etc.. then the next call that came in would be automatically diverted to your chosen alternative number such as your mobile.

This function should be used for disaster recovery and to ensure you never miss a call.
